

SAAA MEMBERSHIP BENEFITS

- As a SAAA member you will benefit through collaborative networks with other national and international academic associations (for example, the IAAER, PAFA and AAFA).
- As a SAAA member you will be part of the Southern African Accounting community which provides opportunities to exchange accountancy education and research ideas and enhance personal development and growth as an accounting academic.
- SAAA members can attend and participate in the quarterly research seminars and, thereby, keep up with current trends in education and research.
- SAAA members can participate in PhD and paper development workshops without further costs.
- SAAA members receive regular correspondence that provides information about both national and international upcoming conferences and events.
- SAAA members have networking opportunities when they attend the biennial national and international conferences, as well as Teaching and Learning conferences, at subsidised fees. SAAA members can attend regional conferences at no cost.
- Conference attendance provides a platform to keep you updated on current trends in education and research (such as what other academics are busy with) and opportunities for both new and established academics to meet and network with academics with similar education and/or research interests, thereby providing opportunities for collaboration with academics from other institutions. SAAA members are therefore provided with excellent opportunities to present and share their research with fellow academics and get useful feedback to improve the research to get it published.
- SAAA members can improve current teaching practices by attending and participating in Show and Tell activities at conferences
- SAAA members can publish papers presented at SAAA conferences, and accepted for publication, in accredited conference proceedings with an ISBN number, that qualifies as a recognised output.
- SAAA members are mentored into the academia and research practices by including them in the review of conference papers. The review process is suitably organised and feedback is provided to new reviewers.
